3a. Leisure Time and Quality of Life

About

Studies have shown that leisure time—free time not related to work or chores—is important for our health and happiness. The average American has about 5 hours of leisure time a day and the optimal amount of leisure time is about 2.5 hours. Less than that and people feel stressed, more than that and people feel idle.

A community’s quality of life is determined in part by the range of options available for how and where to spend leisure time. Tell us how you spend your leisure time and what’s needed to make Moreno Valley a place where people want to be.
